Cocooning, entertaining and working from home with Delta Wright

Interior designer Delta Wright believes that home is more than just a place, it's a state of being. Notes Wright, "creating a home that soothes your soul, ignites your imagination, or hosts your family's milestones has never felt more vital. This generation is cocooning, entertaining and working from home more than ever. Contemporary lifestyles require a new approach to creating spaces to live, work and play."

In the family room, off the kitchen, a Francesco Binfare sectional curves around custom-leather covered ottomans.
